This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

No person shall be admitted a member of the Freshman Class, unless he has completed his fourteenth year, nor to advanced standing, without proportional increase of age. He must bring satisfactory evidence of unexceptionable moral character, be thoroughly acquainted with the Grammar of the Latin and Greek Languages, and be able to construe and parse any portion of the following books, namely : — Jacob's Greek Reader, the Historical Books of the New Testament, or three Books of Xenophon's Cyropædia, Caesar's Commentaries, Virgil, Cicero's Select Orations, and to translate English into Latin Correctly. He must also be well acquainted with ancient and modern Geography, Arithmetic, English Grammar, and with Algebra, as far as Quadratic Equations. To enter upon an advanced standing, he must, in addition, be thoroughly versed in all the preceding studies of the Class to which he proposes to be admitted.

The Grammars used in College, are Goodrich's Greek, and Andrews' and Stoddard's Latin Grammar. Candidates for admission will be subjected to a rigid examination in both.

☞The regular examinations for entrance are held at the close of the summer term, and on the two days next preceding Commencement, commencing at six o'clock, A. M.

APPENDIX.

At the last Commencement, the President, in behalf of the Faculty of Brown University, presented to the Corporation, the Annual Report for the year ending September 4th, 1839. The subjoined extracts from this document are here appended for the purpose of making more generally known the condition and prospects of the Institution :

During the past year, several very important additions have been made to the Library of the University. The classical and philosophical departments have been specially enriched by the prompt and judicious efforts of the Committee of the Library.

The past year has also been rendered memorable in the annals of the University by the distinguished liberality of its friends. A notice of the effort which has lately been made to provide the University with additional facilities for instruction appropriately belongs to the present report.

Nearly two years since, several benevolent gentlemen in Providence privately expressed to some members of the Corporation a willingness to unite in any attempt that might be thought important to promote the prosperity of the Institution. Soon after the last Commencement, these gentlemen met at the house of the President, and the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars was subscribed towards the erection of an additional building, to be devoted to the purposes of Physical Science. After considerable effort had been made, and it seemed impossible to raise the subscription to the required amount, the Treasurer of the University received from the former munificent benefactor of the Institution, the Hon. Nicholas Brown, a letter of which the following is a copy.

PROVIDENCE, March 18, 1839.

MOSES BROWN IVES, ESQ.

Treasurer of Brown University,

DEAR SIR—In common with a number of the friends of Brown University, I desire the erection of a suitable mansion house for the President, and likewise of another College edifice for the accommodation of the departments of Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Mineralogy, Geology and Natural History. As it is highly important that these buildings, so necessary to the welfare of the Institution, should be erected without delay, I tender to the acceptance of the Corporation two lots of land on Waterman street, as a site for the President's house, and the lot of land, called the Hopkins estate, on George street, as a site for the College edifice, and I hereby pledge myself for the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, namely, Seven Thousand dollars for the President's house, and Three Thousand dollars towards the erection of the College edifices, the suitable improvement of the adjacent grounds, and the increase of the permanent means of instruction in the departments of Chemistry, Mineralogy, &c., provided an equal amount be subscribed by the friends of the University before the first of May next.

I am, with affectionate regards, and great personal respect to all the Friends and Patrons of the University,

Respectfully,

NICHOLAS BROWN.

Encouraged by this munificent offer, an effort to secure the necessary subscription was commenced under the most favorable auspices. A subscription headed as follows was circulated among the friends of the Institution.

"In order to secure the munificent donation which the Hon. Nicholas Brown has in the foregoing letter tendered to one of the most ancient and valuable literary Institutions in our country, we, the subscribers, agree to pay to the Treasurer of Brown University, the sums affixed to our respective names, in such instalments as he may require."

"The plan contemplated by Mr. Brown demands the most cordial and efficient co-operation. It is most auspicious to the cause of good learning, and it deserves the favor of the friends of the University wherever their lot may be cast."

It will afford the friends of the University the highest gratification to learn that within the specified time the requisite sum was subscribed, and that the buildings are already in a state of considerable forwardness.

I have also the honor to announce to the Corporation another instance of enlightened liberality. The Reverend Henry Jackson, an alumnus of the University, and a member of this Corporation, has, by letter, signified to the President his intention to endow a scholarship, or to establish premiums, to be awarded to students of distinguished merit, which, when completed, will be of the annual value of Seventy-five dollars. Desirous not only of promoting the cause of good learning, but also of testifying his respect for the memory of his deceased Father, the late Hon. Richard Jackson, for many years a member of this Corporation, he asks that he may be allowed to designate such Scholarship or premium by the name of Jackson. It is presumed that nothing could afford the Corporation greater pleasure than to sanction this act of filial affection, by which the memory of their late venerable associate will be so appropriately perpetuated.

It will be remembered that, some years since, a subscription was commenced for the purpose of raising a fund for the increase of the Library. From this subscription a handsome amount was realised; but as the whole sum of Twenty-five thousand dollars had not been collected, it was determined to use the income but sparingly until the principal was invested, and the whole fund rendered available. The whole sum will, as I understand, be thus realised in the course of the current year. As the Treasurer will make a report upon the condition of this fund it is unnecessary to enlarge upon the subject in this place. It is merely referred to at this time, as a source of gratulation that an effort so important to the best interests of the University has approached so near to its completion.

From the facts stated in this report it will appear evident, that at no previous period of its existence have the prospects of the University been so encouraging as at present. The number of its students has been for several years, steadily increasing. Its means of instruction, generally, it is believed, on a par with those of the most favoured institutions in our land, are rapidly enlarging. Its alumni throughout our country look up to it with grateful affection. Its friends with enlightened liberality are coming forward and proffering their aid to promote, through its instrumentality, the cause of science and learning. Under these auspices it surely is not too much to believe that every effort which the Corporation may make to enlarge the means of Instruction and raise to the highest eminence the moral and intellectual character of the University, will be sustained by the prompt liberality of an enlightened public.

In addition to the above course of studies, instruction in Hebrew is also furnished to those who desire it, and in French, at the expense of the student.

In conducting the studies of the several classes, the most approved text-books are used. It is not, however, the design of the Instructers to be confined strictly to any text-book, as they wish to teach rather the science, than the views of it given by any particular author. For this purpose, a considerable part of the teaching, in the more advanced classes, is done by Lectures.

Courses of Lectures are delivered on the following subjects:

1. Roman Antiquities and Literature.
2. Grecian Antiquities and Literature.
3. The several branches of Natural Philosophy.
4. Chemistry.
5. Physiology, Vegetable and Animal.
6. Rhetoric.
7. Intellectual Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity.
8. Geology.

The following is an outline of the course of instruction and a list of the text-books adopted in the several departments of this University:

1. The Department of Classics.

The studies of this department commence with the first term of Freshman year and close with the second term of Senior year. They comprise the following text-books and exercises:

Greek.	Latin.
Xenophon's Anabasis,	Folsom's Livy,
Xenophon's Memorabelia,	Tacitus,
Homer's Iliad,	Horace,
Euripides,	Cicero de Oratore,
Sophocles,	Juvenal or Terence,
Æschylus,	Exercises in writing Latin,
Demosthenes or Æschines,	and in Latin Prosody.
Exercises in writing Greek.

2. The Department of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.

The studies of this department also commence with the first term of Freshman year, and are continued without interruption through the first term of Senior year. They comprise the following text-books:

Legendre's Geometry,
Bourdon's Algebra,
Legendre's Trigonometry and Applications,
Analytical Geometry.
Lardner's Natural Philosophy, 2 vols.
Brewster's Optics,
Herschell's Astronomy.

3. The Department of Physical Science.

The instruction in this department commences with the second term of Junior year and closes with the third term of Senior year. It comprises,

Turner's Chemistry, and Lectures,
Lectures on Electricity,
" " Magnetism,
" " Physiology, Animal and Vegetable,
" " Geology.

4. The Department of Rhetoric.

The studies and exercises of this department commence with the second term of Sophomore year. The studies close with the third term of Junior year. The exercises are continued throughout the course. The text-books are,

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

No person shall be admitted a member of the Freshman Class, unless he have completed his fourteenth year, nor to advanced standing, without proportional increase of age. He must bring satisfactory evidence of unexceptionable moral character, and be thoroughly acquainted with the Grammar of the Latin and Greek Languages, be able to construe and parse any portion of the following books, namely: — Jacob's Greek Reader, the Historical Books of the New Testament, or three Books of Xenophon's Cyropædia, Cæsar's Commentaries, Virgil, Cicero's Select Orations, and to translate English into Latin correctly. He must also be well acquainted with ancient and modern Geography, Arithmetic, English Grammar, and Algebra, as far as Quadratic Equations. To enter upon an advanced standing, he must, in addition, be thoroughly versed in all the preceding studies of the Class into which he proposes to be admitted.

The Grammars used in College, are Goodrich's Greek, and Andrews' and Stoddard's Latin Grammar. Candidates for admission will be subjected to a rigid examination in both.

☞ The regular examinations for entrance are held at the close of the summer term, and on the two days next preceding Commencement, commencing at six o'clock A. M.

In addition to the above course of studies, instruction in Hebrew is also furnished to those who desire it, and in French, at the expense of the student.

In conducting the studies of the several classes, the most approved text-books are used. It is not, however, the design of the Instructers to be confined strictly to any text-book, as they wish to teach rather the science, than the views of it given by any particular author. For this purpose, a considerable part of the teaching, in the more advanced classes, is done by Lectures.

COURSES OF LECTURES are delivered on the following subjects:

1. Roman Antiquities and Literature.
2. Grecian Antiquities and Literature.
3. The several branches of Natural Philosophy.
4. Chemistry.
5. Physiology, Vegetable and Animal.
6. Rhetoric.
7. Intellectual Philosophy, and Evidences of Christianity.
8. Geology.

The following is an outline of the course of instruction, and a list of the text-books adopted in the several departments of this University:

1. THE DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICS.

The studies of this department commence with the first term of Freshman year, and close with the second term of Senior year. They comprise the following text-books and exercises:

GREEK.

Xenophon's Anabasis,
Xenophon's Memorabilia,
Homer's Iliad,
Euripides,
Sophocles or Æschylus,
Demosthenes or Æschines,
Exercises in writing Greek.

LATIN.

Folsom's Livy,
Tacitus,
Horace,
Cicero de Oratore,
Juvenal or Terence,
Exercises in writing Latin, and in Latin Prosody.

2. THE DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS AND NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.

The studies of this department also commence with the first term of Freshman year, and are continued without interruption through the first term of Senior year. They comprise the following text-books:

Legendre's Geometry,
Bourdon's Algebra,
Legendre's Trigonometry and Applications,
Analytical Geometry,
Lardner's Natural Philosophy, 2 volumes,
Brewster's Optics,
Herschell's Astronomy.

3. THE DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL SCIENCE.

The instruction in this department commences with the second term of Junior year, and closes with the third term of Senior year. It comprises,

Turner's Chemistry, and Lectures,
Lectures on Electricity,
" " Magnetism,
" " Physiology, Animal and Vegetable,
" " Geology.

4. THE DEPARTMENT OF RHETORIC.

The studies and exercises of this department commence with the second term of Sophomore year. The studies close with the third term of Junior year. The exercises are continued throughout the course. The text books are,

Campbell's Philosophy of Rhetoric,
Whately's Rhetoric, and Logic,
Kames' Elements of Criticism,
Declamations—Seniors every week,
" Juniors every week,
" Sophomores every week.

Themes are furnished by the Sophomores once in two weeks; by Juniors and Seniors once in two weeks, one half of the class every week.

Public Exhibition—by Seniors, first term of Senior year.
" " " Juniors, second term of Junior year.

5. THE DEPARTMENT OF MORAL SCIENCE.

This department comprises Intellectual and Moral Philosophy, Evidences of Christianity, Political Economy, and the Constitution of the United States, and is confined to Senior year.

The following is the order of the studies:

Wayland's Elements of Moral Science,
" Political Economy,
Butler's Analogy,
The American Constitution,
Lectures on Intellectual Philosophy,
" Evidences of Christianity.

It is required by the statutes of the University, that the above studies be pursued, and the regular examinations in them sustained, by every persen who intends to become a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The Faculty are aware that the above course of studies cannot be advantageously pursued except by persons who have attained some degree of intellectual maturity. Such, however, they think, must be the case with any course of discipline, intended really to lay the broad foundations of a liberal education, or to prepare young men for the learned professions. It might also be suggested, that individuals whose youth would disable them from pursuing the above studies with success, would do wisely to delay the commencement of a collegiate education to a somewhat later period. The arrangements of such a seminary as this, presuppose in the pupil some power of self-government, and some decidedly formed feeling of social and moral responsibility. Until the character of a young man be thus far formed, he is too young to enter a public Institution.

INFORMATION TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

1. REGULATIONS AND DISCIPLINE.

The Regulations of the Institution are formed with the single design of promoting the intellectual and moral advancement of its members. They are made public, and may be known by every candidate before admission. If, at any time, a student become dissatisfied, he is at liberty immediately to withdraw, with every testimonial of scholarship and character to which he is entitled.

The Discipline of the Institution is intended to be strictly parental. The officers desire to cultivate with their pupils habits of kind and familiar intercourse, and to influence them rather by an appeal to the better principles of the heart, than by severe or disgraceful punishment. If, however, the conduct of a student render it evident that he is not susceptible of such influence, he is immediately, and, if possible, without disgrace, returned to his friends, in the hope that under other circumstances he may yet form a character which will give promise of usefulness. Immoral or disorderly conduct, or habitual negligence in his attendance upon collegiate duties, is always considered a sufficient reason for directing a student to leave the Institution. If any student, after having completed the studies of any year, shall upon examination, be found incompetent to pursue the studies of the year succeeding, he is permitted without additional expense for tuition, to enter the class immediately below him, and thus enjoy a second opportunity of qualifying himself to proceed in the course.

An accurate account of the delinquencies of every student, and also the degree of his attainment in conduct, scholarship and attendance, is kept; a copy of which account, in connexion with the regular term bill, is transmitted to every parent or guardian who may desire it.

The students generally occupy rooms in the College edifices, and board in commons. Any student, however, at the request of his parents, is permitted either to board, or to board and lodge at any suitable private house in the city. It is desired that students residing in the city should lodge at home, that they may, as much as possible, be under the guardianship of their parents.

2. ANNUAL EXPENSES.

The board in commons is charged at its nett expense, and varies with the price of provisions. Good board is furnished at present at from $1 50 to $2 00 per week.

Board for 39 weeks, at $1 50 to $2 00—$58 50 to $78 00.

College bills, including tuition, room rent, use of library, and incidental expenses, about $21 00 per term, or $63 00 per annum.	63 00	63 00
	121 50 to	141 00

3. PAYMENTS.

There are three terms of study in each year, and the expense of each is paid in advance. Students, unless from another College, entering the Freshman Class, pay five dollars, as a fee for matriculation; Sophomore Class, eight dollars; Junior Class, twelve dollars; Senior Class, fifteen dollars. No retrospective tuition is, however, demanded, and a candidate may enter, if qualified, at any period of the course previous to the last term of the Senior year.

4. COMMENCEMENT AND VACATIONS.

Commencement is held on the first Wednesday of September. On Friday afterwards the first Term commences, and continues till December 13th, fourteen weeks—when it is succeeded by a vacation of three weeks. The second Term commences January 4th, and continues till April 4th, thirteen weeks—when it is succeeded by a vacation of four weeks. The third Term commences May 3d, and continues till July 25th, twelve weeks, when it is succeeded by a vacation till Commencement.

COURSE OF STUDIES

IN

BROWN UNIVERSITY,

---

1. REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

No person shall be admitted a member of the Freshman Class, unless he have completed his fourteenth year, nor to advanced standing, without proportional increase of age. He must bring satisfactory evidence of unexceptionable moral character, and be thoroughly acquainted with the Grammar of the Latin and Greek Languages, be able to construe and parse any portion of the following books, namely:—Jacobs's Greek Reader, the Historical Books of the New Testament, or three Books of Xenophon's Cyropædia, Cæsar's Commentaries, Virgil, Cicero's Select Orations, and translate English into Latin correctly. He must also be well acquainted with ancient and modern Geography, Arithmetic, English Grammar, and Algebra, as far as Quadratic Equations. To enter upon an advanced standing, he must, in addition, be thoroughly versed in all the preceding studies of the Class into which he proposes to be admitted.

The Grammars used in College, are Goodrich's Greek and Adam's Latin Grammar. Candidates for admission will be subjected to a rigid examination in both.

☞ The regular examinations for entrance are held at the close of the summer term, and on the two days next preceding Commencement, commencing at 6 o'clock, A. M.

In addition to the above course of studies, instruction in Hebrew is also furnished to those who desire it, and in French, at the expense of the student.

In conducting the studies of the several classes, the most approved text-books are used. It is not, however, the design of the Instructers to be confined strictly to any text-book, as they wish to teach rather the science, than the views of it given by any particular author. For this purpose, a considerable part of the teaching, in the more advanced classes, is done by Lectures.

Courses of Lectures are delivered on the following subjects:

1. Roman Antiquities and Literature.
2. Grecian Antiquities and Literature.
3. The several branches of Natural Philosophy.
4. Chemistry.
5. Physiology, Vegetable and Animal.
6. Rhetoric.
7. Intellectual Philosophy and Evidences of Christianity.
8. Geology.

The following is an outline of the course of instruction and a list of the text-books adopted in the several departments of this University:

1. The Department of Classics.

The studies of this department commence with the first term of Freshman year and close with the second term of Senior year. They comprise the following text-books and exercises:

Greek.
Xenophon's Anabasis,
Xenophon's Memorabolia,
Homer's Iliad,
Euripides,
Sophocles,
Æschylus,
Demosthenes or Æschines,
Exercises in writing Greek.

Latin.
Folsom's Livy,
Tacitus,
Horace,
Cicero de Oratore,
Juvenal or Terence,
Exercises in writing Latin, and in Latin Prosody.

2. The Department of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.

The studies of this department also commence with the first term of Freshman year, and are continued without interruption through the first term of Senior year. They comprise the following text-books:

Legendre's Geometry,
Bourdon's Algebra,
Legendre's Trigonometry and Applications,
Analytical Geometry.
Lardner's Natural Philosophy, 2 vols.
Brewster's Optics,
Herschell's Astronomy.

3. The Department of Physical Science.

The instruction in this department commences with the second term of Junior year and closes with the third term of Senior year. It comprises,

Turner's Chemistry, and Lectures,
Lectures on Electricity,
" " Magnetism,
" " Physiology, Animal and Vegetable,
" " Geology.

4. The Department of Rhetoric.

The studies and exercises of this department commence with the second term of Sophomore year. The studies close with the third term of Junior year. The exercises are continued throughout the course. The text-books are,

Campbell's Philosophy of Rhetoric,
Whately's Rhetoric,
Kames' Elements of Criticism

Declamations—Seniors every week,
" Juniors every week,
" Sophomores every week.

Themes are furnished by Sophomores once in two weeks,—by Juniors and Seniors once in two weeks, one half the class every week.

Public Exhibition—by Seniors, first term of Senior year.
" " " Juniors, second term of Junior year.

5. The Department of Moral Science.

This department comprises Intellectual and Moral Philosophy, Evidences of Christianity, Political Economy, and the Constitution of the United States, and is confined to Senior year.

The following is the order of the studies:

Wayland's Elements of Moral Science,
" Political Economy,
Butler's Analogy.
The American Constitution,
Lectures on Intellectual Philosophy,
" Evidences of Christianity.

It is required by the statutes of the University, that the above studies be pursued, and the regular examinations in them sustained, by every person who intends to become a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The Faculty are aware that the above course of studies cannot be advantageously pursued, except by persons who have attained some degree of intellectual maturity. Such, however, they think, must be the case with any course of discipline, intended really to lay the broad foundations of a liberal education, or to prepare young men for the learned professions. It might also be suggested, that individuals whose youth would disable them from pursuing the above studies with success, would do wisely to delay the commencement of a collegiate education to a somewhat later period. The arrangements of such a seminary as this, presuppose in the pupil some power of self-government, and some decidedly formed feeling of social and moral responsibility. Until the character of a young man be thus far formed, he is too young to enter a public institution.

INFORMATION TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

1. REGULATIONS AND DISCIPLINE.

The Regulations of the Institution are formed with the single design of promoting the intellectual and moral advancement of its members. They are made public, and may be known by every candidate before admission. If, at any time, a student become dissatisfied, he is at liberty immediately to withdraw, with every testimonial of scholarship and character to which he is entitled.

The Discipline of the Institution is intended to be strictly parental. The officers desire to cultivate with their pupils habits of kind and familiar intercourse, and to influence them rather by an appeal to the better principles of the heart, than by severe or disgraceful punishment. If, however, the conduct of a student render it evident that he is not susceptible of such influence, he is immediately, and, if possible, without disgrace, returned to his friends, in the hope that under other circumstances he may yet form a character which will give promise of usefulness. Immoral or disorderly conduct, or habitual negligence in his attendance upon collegiate duties, is always considered a sufficient reason for directing a student to leave the Institution. If any student, after having completed the studies of any year, shall upon examination, be found incompetent to pursue the studies of the year succeeding, he is permitted, without additional expense for tuition, to enter the class immediately below him, and thus enjoy a second opportunity of qualifying himself to proceed in the course.

An accurate account of the delinquencies of every student, and also of the degree of his attainment in conduct, scholarship and attendance, is kept; a copy of which account, in connexion with the regular term bill, is transmitted to every parent or guardian who may desire it.

The students generally occupy rooms in the College edifices, and board in commons. Any student, however, at the request of his parents, is permitted either to board, or to board and lodge, at any suitable private house in the city. It is desired that students residing in the city should lodge at home, that they may, as much as possible, be under the guardianship of their parents.

2. ANNUAL EXPENSES.

The board in commons is charged at its nett expense, and varies with the price of provisions. Good board is furnished at present at from $1 25 to $1 50 per week, and that which is more expensive at from $1 75 to $2 00 per week.

Board for 39 weeks, at $1 25 to $1 50—$48 75 to $58 50
Board " " " $1 75 to $2 00,				$68 25 to $78 00
College bills, including tuition, room rent, use of library, and incidental expenses, about $21 00 per term, or $63 per annum,	63 00	63 00	63 00	63 00
	111 75 to 121 50		131 25 to 141 00

3. PAYMENTS.

There are three terms of study in each year, and the expense of each is paid in advance. Students, unless from another College, entering the Freshman Class, pay five dollars as a fee for matriculation, Sophomore Class, eight dollars; Junior Class, twelve dollars; Senior Class, fifteen dollars. No retrospective tuition is, however, demanded, and a candidate may enter, if qualified, at any period of the course previous to the last term of the Senior year.

4. COMMENCEMENT AND VACATIONS.

Commencement is held on the first Wednesday of September. On Friday afterwards, the first Term commences, and continues till December 14th, fourteen weeks—when it is succeeded by a vacation of three weeks. The second Term commences January 5th, and continues till April 5th, thirteen weeks—when it is succeeded by a vacation of four weeks. The third Term commences May 4th, and continues till July 26th, twelve weeks—when it is succeeded by a vacation till Commencement.

It is required by the statutes of the University, that the above studies be pursued, and the regular examinations in them sustained, by every person who intends to become a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

APPENDIX.

At the last Commencement, the President, in behalf of the Faculty of Brown University, presented to the Corporation, the Annual Report for the year ending September 4th, 1839. The subjoined extracts from this document are here appended for the purpose of making more generally known the condition and prospects of the Institution :

During the past year, several very important additions have been made to the Library of the University. The classical and philosophical departments have been specially enriched by the prompt and judicious efforts of the Committee of the Library.

The past year has also been rendered memorable in the annals of the University by the distinguished liberality of its friends. A notice of the effort which has lately been made to provide the University with additional facilities for instruction appropriately belongs to the present report.

Nearly two years since, several benevolent gentlemen in Providence privately expressed to some members of the Corporation a willingness to unite in any attempt that might be thought important to promote the prosperity of the Institution. Soon after the last Commencement, these gentlemen met at the house of the President, and the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars was subscribed towards the erection of an additional building, to be devoted to the purposes of Physical Science. After considerable effort had been made, and it seemed impossible to raise the subscription to the required amount, the Treasurer of the University received from the former munificent benefactor of the Institution, the Hon. Nicholas Brown, a letter of which the following is a copy.

PROVIDENCE, March 18, 1839.

MOSES BROWN IVES, ESQ.

Treasurer of Brown University,

DEAR SIR—In common with a number of the friends of Brown University, I desire the erection of a suitable mansion house for the President, and likewise of another College edifice for the accommodation of the departments of Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, Mineralogy, Geology and Natural History. As it is highly important that these buildings, so necessary to the welfare of the Institution, should be erected without delay, I tender to the acceptance of the Corporation two lots of land on Waterman street, as a site for the President's house, and the lot of land, called the Hopkins estate, on George street, as a site for the College edifice, and I hereby pledge myself for the sum of Ten Thousand dollars, namely, Seven Thousand dollars for the President's house, and Three Thousand dollars towards the erection of the College edifices, the suitable improvement of the adjacent grounds, and the increase of the permanent means of instruction in the departments of Chemistry, Mineralogy, &c., provided an equal amount be subscribed by the friends of the University before the first of May next.

I am, with affectionate regards, and great personal respect to all the Friends and Patrons of the University,

Respectfully,

NICHOLAS BROWN.

Encouraged by this munificent offer, an effort to secure the necessary subscription was commenced under the most favorable auspices. A subscription in brief as follows was circulated among the friends of the Institution

"In order to secure the munificent donation which the Hon. Nicholas Brown has in the foregoing letter tendered to one of the most ancient and valuable literary Institutions in our country, we, the subscribers, agree to pay to the Treasurer of Brown University, the sums affixed to our respective names, in such instalments as he may require."

"The plan contemplated by Mr. Brown demands the most cordial and efficient co-operation. It is most auspicious to the cause of good learning, and it deserves the favor of the friends of the University wherever their lot may be cast."

It will afford the friends of the University the highest gratification to learn that within the specified time the requisite sum was subscribed, and that the buildings are already in a state of considerable forwardness.

I have also the honor to announce to the Corporation another instance of enlightened liberality. The Reverend Henry Jackson, an alumnus of the University, and a member of this Corporation, has, by letter, signified to the President his intention to endow a scholarship, or to establish premiums, to be awarded to students of distinguished merit, which, when completed, will be of the annual value of Seventy-five dollars. Desirous not only of promoting the cause of good learning, but also of testifying his respect for the memory of his deceased Father, the late Hon. Richard Jackson, for many years a member of this Corporation, he asks that he may be allowed to designate such Scholarship or premium by the name of Jackson. It is presumed that nothing could afford the Corporation greater pleasure than to sanction this act of filial affection, by which the memory of their late honorable associate will be so appropriately perpetuated.

It will be recollected that, some years since, a subscription was commenced for the purpose of raising a fund for the increase of the Library. [illegible] but as the whole [illegible] not been collected, it was determined [illegible] should be kept entire, and the principal was invested, and [illegible] The whole sum is, as I understand, [illegible] the current year. As the Treasurer [illegible] it unnecessary to enlarge [illegible] as a [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible]
